Today the gospel tells us about the temptations of Jesus in desert. The devil came to tempt Jesus after 40 days of fasting and prayers. This gospel reading brings us two questions: If Jesus is God, Son of God, why was He tempted by the devil? Or why He allowed Himself to be tempted! Well, Jesus was tempted by the devil because He was a human being. Temptation is human. To show us how the devil infects every human being. Also, the temptations of Jesus teach us that the devil is not far away from us. He is in our lives. He is in our job, ...The temptations of Jesus tell us that the devil knows when we are weak, vulnerable. Notice that Jesus was tempted after 40 days of fasting. The devil knew that after 40 days of fasting, Jesus was hungry, he knew the best moment to tempt us. Also, the temptations of Jesus remind us that the devil uses all kinds the tricks to tempt us even the Scriptures. Remember when the devil quotes the Scripture to tempt Jesus.

It shows us that no matter how holy we are and how filled with the Spirit of God, we still have to guard against the temptations of the devil, for he is interested in leading us astray. Lastly, the temptations of Jesus remind us how the devil tries to astray us from our mission, vocation ...to follow Jesus and keep our Lenten resolutions. Remember that the temptations of Jesus happened before he begins his public ministry. And the devil try to make Him stray: If you are the son of God.....the same thing can happen to us anytime (especially in Lenten season). We have decided to clean up our lives and make a fresh start. We decided to give up candies, chocolate,.....we decided to read the Scripture everyday instead of spending time watching TV, we decide.....to be close to God..... but the devil will try to discourage us, he will try to make us stray from our goal and mission. The second question that this reading raises is about us. Why does the Church give us the story of the temptation of Jesus every year on the first Sunday of Lent? How to resist the temptations we face every day as human being. Jesus shows us what to do: Exalt God. The devil cannot stand it when we exalt God. To each temptation, Jesus responds by exalting God: one does not live by bread alone - but by God's word. God alone shall you worship and serve. Do not put God to the test. For us, too, the battle against evil never stops. We are all tempted to comfort, to success, to be somebody, to power: to run things, to run people, the selfishness, the greed, the anger, hostility, the jealousy and resentment. The list is long. When temptations come, Jesus shows us what to do: Exalt God. The devil cannot stand it when we exalt God.

Each time your are facing hard times, or you are tempted by the devil, think about the Spirit of God within you. Think about God, Scripture and Gospel reading (One phrase or words. Say the Holy name of Jesus, praise God and the devil will flee. Think about God's presence in your life. Because trusting in God as Jesus did, will make you strong. From Jesus, we learn that God is present in the midst of test and temptations. And when you receive the body of Christ, ask him to give you the grace you need to resist temptations.

Prayer, fasting and almsgiving, are the three commands for the season of Lent.

Jesus fasted during 40 days, so he calls us to fast. Why? To overcome our disordered desire for pleasure. So if you have a problem with addiction to pleasure, whether it be food or drink or sexual pleasure, whatever it might be (like pornography addiction for example), what's the remedy for that? Fast, because fasting helps you to control and to mortify, to put the death that disordered inclination to pleasure. Secondly, if you have a disordered desire to acquire money or possessions, what do you do? Give alms, give to the poor, because it mortifies, or puts to death, that disordered desire to possess things. So lent should be a season where we are particularly intentional about giving to the poor, giving to the Church, giving to those in need. So if you have too much money, if you have too many things, if you are attached to them, give them away and it will help you grow in freedom from that particular sin. And then finally, if you have a disordered love of self, the sin of pride or vanity, what should you do during Lent? Pray, because prayer is like poison to pride. It kills pride at the root by helping us to grow in humility, because whenever we get on our knees and pray, we are by definition recognizing that God is God and we are not, that we are his creatures, that we need his help and that we need his grace. So if you correlate the readings for Ash Wednesday with the readings for the first Sunday in Lent, the Church is giving us Jesus's directives here during Lent. It is very simple. What do we want to do? We want to pray more, we want to fast more and we want to give alms more to the poor, so that we can unite ourselves to the mystery of Jesus in the desert. And I promise you that if this Lent you take on the challenge of not just abstaining from something you like, but really commit yourself to maybe one day of fasting during the week, or even two days or more, whatever it is that you need to do, to giving alms and to praying more frequently with more intensity, I promise you will see that this Lent will be a different Lent. It will be grace filled, it is going to be a time where you really are united in a closer way to Jesus and to the mystery of Jesus in the desert.
